PLANS FOR FINAL
EXAMS ANNOUNCED

It is, perhaps, a shame to close the good old summer times on what many will interpret as a sour note and to begin the last issue of your SUMMER TIMES with an announcement that many will not be pleased to see; but life being what it is, such things happen, and the academic world being constituted as it is, final exams do occur.

To sweeten this bitter pill as much as possible, Dean William R. Cashen, director of the Summer Session, has indicated that no formal examination schedule will be set up and that professors may use the last two days of the session, Monday and Tuesday of next week, pretty much as they see fit for giving the final exams. He even indicates that final exams are not compulsory - and then immediately adds that they are strongly recommended in all lecture courses.

In order to eliminate the possibility of students having two or three exams in succession, it is suggested that classes meeting the first, third, and fifth periods use the regularly scheduled class meeting on Monday for the exam, and that classes meeting the second, fourth, and sixth periods use the regularly scheduled class meeting on Tuesday for this purpose. Be it noted that this arrangement does not prohibit a nasty orge of an instructor from dividing an exam into two parts and using both days.

Since the session must meet 30 days, Dean Cashen indicated, all classes should be held on Tuesday even though the final exam may have been given on Monday.

The SUMMER TIMES hopes that you will not find these exams too rugged.

GALA EVENTS MARK
INFORMAL ENDING OF SUMMER SESSION

Life has its bright as well as its dark side; and so, fortunately, does the end of the Summer Session. A number of events are on the agenda for the next few days which will permit the good old summer times to approach their end on a more cheerful note than that suggested in the preceding item of news - or at least they should allow a bit of relaxation in preparation for those exams.

First of these is a recital to be presented this evening 8 o'clock by the Music Department under the direction of Miss Lorraine Donoghue, to be followed by a reception immediately after the close of the program. This should serve as a prelude for the big affair of tomorrow evening.

As announced in last week's issue of the SUMMER TIMES, the annual open house held at the end of the Summer Session is scheduled for tomorrow evening between 8 and 10 in the Eielson Building. The program will center around various exhibits of work done in different classes during the term, refreshments will be served, and buildings will be open to inspection by visitors. Everyone is invited.

Rumor has it that some particularly good exhibits are being arranged by Ruth Lambie and Karin Pehrson to illustrate the work that has been accomplished in arts and crafts and in weaving. It is expected that these will be the feature exhibits of the evening.

John Mehler, University librarian, has announced that he will put on display in the library an exhibition of rare books dealing with military and naval explorations in Alaska between 1869 and 1900.

The Geophysical Institute will be open, and so will the Brooks Memorial Mines Building if the workers now putting on the finishing touches get through the job in time.

Refreshments are being prepared by Isabelle Fish, dormitory hostess, and will be served by Mrs. Terris Moore, Mrs. Neil Hosley, Mrs. William Cashen, Mrs. Burton Fryxell, Miss Mary Lambie, Mrs. Leonard Brumm, Mrs. Anne Rodgers, and Mrs. Lydia Fohn-Hansen.

And then on Sunday evening at the University Cafeteria between 5 and 7 P.M. there will be a Swedish smorgasbord, open to the public at $1 a plate for adults and 50¢ for children.

Such an array of events should help to give everyone the mental strength to face exams on Monday and Tuesday. At least, you can be sure that you will find enough food on Sunday to give you the physical strength to last through the ordeal of the two following days.

STUDENTS' ADDRESSES ARE PUBLISHED TODAY

In response to a number of requests that have been made for such information and in keeping with a tradition started a year ago, the SUMMER TIMES, in this its final issue, presents a directory of the students who have been enrolled this summer. Two pages containing the names and addresses appear at the end of this issue. The list is as accurate as we have been able to make it, and we hope that not too many errors will be found. If you want to keep in touch with any of those who have shared the good old summer times with you in 1952, we suggest that you keep this directory as a handy reference.

EDUCATION STUDENTS HAVE FAREWELL PARTY

Education students in the classes of Mrs. Jessie Williams and Dr. Leonard Bowman got together last night for a private farewell party all of their own by assembling at a no-host dinner held at the Club Juno in downtown Fairbanks.

We understand that a good time - not too noisy and not too sentimental - was had by all. We have been unable to learn whether there was any significance in the choice of locale.

FOUR MOVIES ARE

A quadruple-bill, doubling the twin-bills of so many popular theaters today, was featured here on Tuesday evening between the hours of 7 and 8:30, when no less than four distinct films were shown by the University of Alaska Film Circuit.

The films were: "Winter Wonderland," "Farmers of Japan," "Snow Harvest," and "A Tree Grows for Christmas." The first was prepared by the United States Forest Service, the others by the Department of Agriculture.

FINAL ASSEMBLY FEATURES
MOVIES OF GOLD MINING

An essential part of the education of every new-comer and visitor to Alaska was completed at the final assembly of the current Summer Session today when movies showing the placer gold mining operations in the Fairbanks area were presented in 218 Eielson at 12:30.

A clear picture of how the huge dredges work, as contrasted with the pioneer methods of placer mining, was presented, a picture which, when coupled with the actual visit to a gold dredge made possible two weeks ago, allows everyone to become a pseudo-expert on one of the industries for which Alaska has become famous.

The SUMMER TIMES herewith extends a vote of thanks to the Fairbanks Exploration Co. for thus making it possible for everyone to learn the facts about gold mining and for presenting this contribution to the good old summer times.

BITS OF FACT AND FANCY

For the second consecutive week, this department of your SUMMER TIMES finds itself faced with a relative scarcity of items to present. The reason seems to be the same as that which was suggested a week ago - students seem, rather oddly, to be too busy writing term papers and worrying about the thing referred to in the first story of this issue to have indulged in much extra-curricular activity this past week end.

Karin Pehrson had a private exhibition on Monday evening of dolls attractively dressed in native Swedish garments which she had made. It developed into a bit of a party as a number of Summer Session students showed slides of scenes they have photographed this summer. Mrs. Fohn-Hansen also showed some slides. Refreshments were served too.

Nancy Friedrich was saved the trouble of taking a trip to Livengood last week end when Nick Lean came to College instead.

Margaret Mary Chapman went to Circle on Sunday.

Mrs. Jessie Williams and Marjorie Webb were guests at dinner at Ladd Air Force Base on Sunday.

Edith Egly, Lorraine Davenport, and Mary Louise Meyers went on a picnic Sunday. Whereabouts is apparently a mystery that is the cause of much curiosity.

The three "minnies" - Agnes Keating, Ruth Davis, and Gladys Gandsey - have made arrangements to leave campus a bit early and are setting out over the Highway on Saturday morning for the long drive back to Minnesota.

Others who have arranged to depart early, and will be catching the train Saturday morning, are: Kathryn Newkirk, Margaret Allen, Frances Gahagan, Nellie Foley, and Alma Blunck.

Visitors on campus this week include Dr. A. S. Leopold from California and Dr. Frank Darling from England.

VALEDICTORY

So the 1952 Summer Session approaches its end, the good old summer times at the University of Alaska cease for the present, and your journal of summer activities now prints its final issue, suspending publication for another year, perhaps for ever.

Thus it is time to say farewell - farewell to each other, farewell to the University, farewell to Alaska. For some of us, it will be but a brief farewell, an au revoir rather than an adieu; for there are those among us who will be returning to the University when the fall term opens next month. For others of us, it will be a longer farewell, an "I'll see you next summer" farewell; for there are those among us who will be going elsewhere within the next few days but will be back in 1953 for some more of the good old summer times here. For still others of us, it will be, perhaps, a permanent farewell, a final adieu to friends, colleagues, the campus, the Northland in general; for there are those among us who will soon be leaving Alaska, perhaps never to return. To each of you, no matter which category is yours, your SUMMER TIMES editor at this time says farewell and extends the best of good wishes.

It is his earnest hope that the SUMMER TIMES has contributed some bit of pleasure to your stay here in the term now ending, that it has kept you informed as to what has taken place during this time, that it has let you know in advance what was going to happen so that you could make plans accordingly, that these six issues may serve as a kind of combination record and souvenir of what it is hoped has been a pleasant and valuable personal experience. If any or all of these hopes are realized, it may well be that your memories of the Northland and of the University of Alaska will be kept permanently vivid. Then the time devoted to producing this weekly publication will have been time well spent and the editor thereof will feel that, though farewells are necessary, the sadness so frequently associated with them, will be somewhat alleviated. - BLF
