HURRAH!!

That gradually increasing roar you heard around campus Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning was the university community cheering the results of the university's $16.9-million bond election.

The roar was both individual and collective. That is, the hurrahs were voiced by faculty and staff, either individually twirling dials on the radio and television sets or collectively whooping it up at election night parties.

The bond vote tally as Nanook News went to press was: Yes--34,188; No--14,259. This represents a 70 per cent approval vote.

In contrast, the top vote-getting bond proposal on the state ballot, the highway construction issue, won 79 per cent of the ballots cast. The issue that fared poorest, although it still passed, was the ferry construction proposal. It gained 56 per cent of votes cast.

All seven of the state's bonding proposals were approved by voters. The university's proposal gained the fourth highest number of votes.

VISITING CHEMIST TO LECTURE

Dr. William B. Jolly, professor of chemistry at the University of California at Berkeley, will present two lectures this week dealing with his current research activities.

Today, November 10, Dr. Jolly will discuss "Liquid Ammonia Chemistry." The lecture will be at 1 p.m. in Duckering 318.

At 2 p.m. Friday, November 11, Dr. Jolly will discuss his work with sulfur-nitrogen compounds. This lecture also will be in Duckering 318.

Dr. Jolly's visit was made possible through the support of the American Chemical Society's Committee on Visiting Scientists and a grant from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE ENROLLMENT INCREASES

Total enrollment in the University of Alaska's six Community Colleges is up 14 per cent over last year, according to figures released last week by the Division of Statewide Services.

Enrollment in academic programs at the colleges increased 27 per cent from 1,173 to 1,552 students, while non-academic program enrollment rose from 1,405 to 1,452.

The biggest percentage jump came in the Kenai Community College where academic enrollment increased from 21 to 73 and non-academic enrollment rose from 52 to 103.

Anchorage, the largest of the six colleges, increased from 886 to 1,085 academic enrollments and reported a drop in non-academic enrollments from 961 to 827.

ANNEXSTAD LEAVES FOR MACQUARIE ISLAND

John O. Annexstad, a senior research assistant at the Geophysical Institute, leaves for Macquarie Island in the South Pacific next week to participate in a micropulsation study for the Institute.

Sponsored by a $26,500 grant from the National Science Foundation, Office of Antarctic Programs, his trip involves the study of small fluctuations in the earth's magnetic field at conjugate points, locations linked by the same magnetic field line.

Macquarie Island was selected because it is a conjugate point to Kotzebue on the Arctic coast.

The study is under the direction of Dr. Charles R. Wilson of the Geophysical Institute. Annexstad will operate observation equipment at Macquarie Island and will use the results of the research program for a doctoral dissertation.

DR WOOD, DR. GUNTHER MENTIONED IN SATURDAY REVIEW

Dr. William R. Wood, university president, and Dr. Erna Gunther, head of the Department of Anthropology are mentioned in the lead article of the October 22 issue of Saturday Review.

The article, entitled "Alaska's Vanishing Art", was written by Katharine Kuh. It deals with the apathy shown by national, state and local organizations toward preservation of the few remaining examples of early native Alaskan art such as totem poles, carvings, and other rapidly vanishing art forms.

The article includes a quote from Dr. Wood on native training programs. It also mentions Dr. Gunther's work in organizing a native arts display for the Alaska-67 exposition in Fairbanks.

EMPLOYMENT INTERVIEW SESSIONS SCHEDULED

Mrs. Bettie S. Harrop, head of Graduate Placement, announces that representatives of the Boeing Company and Pan American Petroleum Corporation will be on campus next week to interview seniors and graduate students interested in full-time employment after completion of degree requirements.

Robert Lincoln, Boeing representative, will interview November 14 and 15 students who will receive bachelor or master of science degrees in civil engineering, electrical engineering, mathematics, physics, chemical engineering and engineering management.

E.C. Sigurdson of Pan American Petroleum will be on campus November 17 to interview students who expect to receive bachelor of science degrees in electrical, chemical, mechanical, civil and mineral engineering.

Qualified and interested persons should apply for an interview appointment in Room 209, Constitution Hall.

OFF-CAMPUS PROGRAM ENROLLMENTS RISE

Enrollment in community and on-base programs conducted by the University of Alaska's Department of Evening Classes and Correspondence Study rose this semester from 607 to 647 students, according to preliminary figures.

SCANDINAVIAN ART EXPERT TO SPEAK

Dr. Marion J. Nelson, associate professor of Scandinavian art at the University of Minnesota, will lecture on folk painting in Scandinavia Friday, November 11, at 8 p.m. in the Duckering Auditorium.

Dr. Nelson is considered the outstanding expert on Scandinavian art in the United States. His lecture here is sponsored by the American-Scandinavian Foundation and its recently-formed Interior Alaska Chapter.

NOW THEY'RE PERMANENT!

Student Affairs Office announces that their permanent telephone numbers are 317 or 528.

READING THEATRE DEBUTS

The University of Alaska Reading Theatre will present a program based on excerpts of Mark Twain's "Diary of Eve" and "Diary of Adam" at 4:15 p.m. Friday, November 18, in Schaible Hall.

This is the first in a series of afternoon programs to be presented by the Reading Theatre.

The special 45-minute program was prepared by Dr. Evelyn Seedorf Coope, visiting lecturer in speech. Readings will be by Lynna Howard and Larry Kelley, members of a class in oral interpretation.

SPORTS LUNCHEON IS PLANNED

All right, Nanook followers, and those of you interested in the university's sports program, here's your opportunity to get a close-up at what's in store for the Nanooks this season in basketball, skiing, swimming and hockey.

A no-host sports luncheon will be held at 12:30 p.m. Thursday, November 17, in the Nanook Lounge of the Patty Building. Members of the university's coaching staff will be on hand to discuss the overall sports program and to preview action in the upcoming season. Members of the 1966-67 Nanook basketball squad also will attend.

Dr. Francis Pyne, head of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, said the luncheon is planned as the first of a series of regular briefings on Nanook developments as the season progresses in varsity sports.

Faculty-staff interested in attending should call Dr. Pyne's office at Ext. 546. Cost of the luncheon will be $2. Members of the Fairbanks community also will be welcome.

CALLING ALL PHI BETA KAPPAS!

The Faculty Council is interested in establishing a chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa national honorary scholastic society on the University of Alaska campus.

To charter a chapter, a request must be made by a group of Phi Beta Kappa members on campus. If you are Phi Beta Kappa and would be interested in helping establish a local chapter, please contact Dr. George C. West, chairman of the Faculty Council, at Ext. 661.

NEWCOMERS GROUP TO MEET

The second fall meeting of the University Women's Association Newcomers Group will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday, November 16, in the Commons Lounge.

Mrs. Frances Buswell will present a program entitled, "Keeping House Plants Alive in the Winter".

All first and second year faculty women are invited to attend.

LOUNGE RULES COMMITTEE SOUGHT

Do you use the faculty lounge room in the basement of the Commons? Have any ideas for how rules governing its use should be set up?

The Faculty Council is organizing a committee to formulate these rules. If you have ideas or would like to be a member of the committee, please call Dr. George C. West, chairman of the Faculty Council, at Ext. 661.

LET'S GET ACQUAINTED!

Women graduate students and wives of men graduate students are invited to a "Get Acquainted" tea at the home of Mrs. Kenneth M. Rae, 520 University of Alaska campus, on Sunday, November 13, at 2 p.m.
