

Subject: Re: Confirming no IRB
From: Bridget Watson <bjwatson@alaska.edu>
Date: Fri, 22 Apr 2011 15:58:21 -0800
To: Hild Peters <hmpeters@alaska.edu>

Hi Hild- Yes, case studies or life histories on individuals such as the one you are planning do not meet the definition of human subject research requiring review by the IRB.

Thanks for checking!
Bridget

On Thu, Apr 21, 2011 at 4:46 PM, Hild Peters <hmpeters@alaska.edu> wrote:

Hi Bridget,

I spoke to you about a month ago about possibly needing to submit an IRB. I am doing the life story of the Reverend Helen Peters for my master's thesis and it was determined that I would not need to submit the paperwork because the scope is narrow. Could you please confirm that this is the case?

Thanks,
Hild

--

Hild Peters
Executive Officer
College of Natural Science and Mathematics
University of Alaska Fairbanks
P (907) 474-7941
F (907) 474-5101

--

Bridget Watson

IACUC/IRB
Office of Research Integrity
Center for Research Services
WRRB Suite 212
p: 474-7800
f: 474-5638